Privacy Policy

Itanium Software Solutions, Inc, hereafter the Company, agrees not to disclose to anyone the terms, conditions, subject matter, or identity of the parties involved in any paid transaction to any other party unless required to do so by Nevis law. The Company collects personal information, such as your e-mail address, name, address and telephone number, but it does not collect any anonymous demographic information.

The Company does not sell, rent or lease its client lists to anyone. There is also information about your computer hardware and software that is automatically collected by the Company. This information can include: your IP address, browser type, domain names, access times and referring website addresses. This information is used by the Company solely for the purpose of maintaining security of the website.

The Company's website uses your personal information to operate and deliver the services you have requested. You may also be sent periodical newsletters by email notifying you of issues relevant to your account.

The Company is not responsible for the privacy statements or other content on websites outside of the Company's websites.

The Company's websites will disclose your personal information, without notice, only if required to do so by Nevis law or in the good faith belief that such action is necessary to: (a) conform to the edicts of Nevis law or comply with legal process served on the Company or the website; (b) protect and defend the rights or property of www.haizon.com, but not limited to this Company's website; and, (c) act under exigent circumstances to protect the personal safety of users of the Company, its websites, or the public.

Use of this Website constitutes acceptance of the Terms & Conditions and Privacy Policy
